Planned gifts are of great importance to the School. If you make us part of your estate plan, please let us know. In doing so, you will be designated as a member of the Gerrard Society, which recognizes those who help ensure our long-term stability and financial health. Now, more than ever, the School’s future depends upon gifts made by alumni and friends to tailor the gift over time, we were able to say “Thank You” for her generosity and thoughtful planning.

Fortunately, Johansson met on a number of occasions with Lyne Gamble, the School’s director of planned giving, and others, to talk about the gift in a way that fit her wishes. Most importantly, the UNC public health school should receive a gift from her estate. She was passionate about public health nursing and she liked the idea of giving a new generation the opportunity to study at the School as she had.

Alumna Mabel Smith Johansson passed away on Nov. 13, 2009. She is missed by all who knew her gentle spirit.

Johansson, who received her Master of Public Health in public health nursing here in 1961, made annual gifts to the School and established a charitable gift annuity toward a scholarship she created. More than a decade ago, she also decided that the UNC public health school should receive a gift from her estate. She was passionate about public health nursing, and she liked the idea of giving a new generation the opportunity to study at the School as she had.

Fortunately, Johansson met on a number of occasions with Lyne Gamble, the School’s director of planned giving, and others, to tailor the gift in a way that fit her wishes. Most importantly, by working with the School’s external affairs office over time, we were able to say “Thank You” for her generosity and thoughtful planning.

“It was a privilege to have gotten to know Mabel Johansson,” Gamble says. “She had a wonderful combination of charm and seriousness of purpose. Throughout her life, Mabel was a great advocate for public health. It meant a lot to her to know she would have a positive effect on future generations of public health students.”

– Linda Kastleman

Mabel Johansson