

If You're Admitted and Enroll, We'll Refund Your Graduate School Application Fee!

Some of our graduate programs require that you pay application fees to both SOPHAS and our Graduate School when you apply. The Gillings School will reimburse all students who are admitted and enroll in Gillings Degree programs that require both SOPHAS and Graduate School applications with $85 (the cost of one Graduate School application). This reimbursement will be credited to enrolled students' accounts by no later than September 15, 2016.

Which programs are eligible for the $85 waiver	<ul style="list-style-type: none">• All MPH programs throughout the School except the MPH program in Biostatistics• PhD programs in Health Behavior and Maternal and Child Health
I received an application fee waiver through the UNC Graduate School. Do I qualify for an additional reimbursement?	No.
I applied to two different MPH programs at the Gillings School and therefore had to pay the SOPHAS application fee AND two Graduate School application fees. Can I get reimbursed for both Graduate School application fees?	No, even if admitted to more than one program, each student is only eligible to receive reimbursement for the one program s/he enters (i.e., a total of $85).
Can I still receive a reimbursement if I am not admitted to a Gillings program?	No, only students who are admitted and enroll in a Gillings program can receive the reimbursement.
When will the $85 be credited to my account?	By no later than September 15. To receive the credit, students must be enrolled in a degree program at UNC Gillings and attending classes. Students must also submit a receipt for the $85 fee to be considered for the reimbursement.