Thriving Hearts: Healing-Centered, Integrated, Community Maternity Care

We plan to partner with local health departments in North Carolina to test a three-level intervention program to prevent high blood pressure and its complications and grow thriving families. The three levels are: Individual – Implement evidence-based, culturally tailored, holistic care for pregnant people at risk for high blood pressure and its complications; Clinic – Conduct trauma-informed care training; Community – Provide active assistance and resources to reduce stigma and improve uptake in a mutual aid context that cultivates trust. Role: Community Engagement Lead

(Lightfoot, Jordan & Locklear)

04/01/24 - 03/31/25

UNC Rural

$15,000

Through the Lens of Recovery: Photovoice Initiative for Healing in Robeson County

Robeson County, a Tier I most distressed county in North Carolina, faces economic challenges, poor health infrastructure, and regular natural disasters, exacerbating its vulnerability to the opioid crisis. Addiction profoundly impacts the community in this rural county. To address this issue, we are launching a photovoice initiative to provide individuals affected by addiction, recovery, and moral injury the opportunity to share their voices and visions through photography and storytelling. Our goal is to leverage the power of community members to become agents of change and find sustainable solutions for recovery and collective healing. Role: MPI, Photovoice Lead

Understanding the Potential of Youth Participatory Action Research to Improve African American Youth Mental Health Outcomes

The goal of this research is to better understand the process of nurturing cultural protective factors and radical healing to reduce African American youth mental health inequalities. The aims of this study are to assess if and how the Youth Empowered Advocating for Health

(YEAH) Youth Participatory Action Research (YPAR) intervention influences post-traumatic growth among African American youth (ages 13-18) to reduce risk for mental health problems due to racial trauma. Role: MPI, Sub-Award PI

Youth Participatory Action Research to Prevent Community Violence among Black youth

We will use a community-based participatory research (CBPR) approach to implement and evaluate the effect of a multilevel intervention, Youth Empowered Advocating for Health (YEAH), on Black youth prosocial behavior and aggressive behavior using a waitlist control design. We will evaluate the effectiveness of YEAH compared to waitlist control on youth prosocial behavior and aggressive behavior and examine if potential underlying mechanisms including critical consciousness, racial identity, social cohesion, and future orientation mediate the effects of YEAH on youth prosocial and aggressive behavior. Finally, we will explore potential community-level outcomes of YEAH including social cohesion, political and civic mindedness, violent crimes, and political participation. Role: Co-Investigator, Sub-award PI
