

The UNC Department of Environmental Sciences and Engineering presents their Centennial Seminar Series:

A Road Trip Extended: Fingerprinting Chemicals in the Air From the UNC Smog Chamber to Chinese Megacities

MARCH 4, 2021 • 8:00 P.M. ET (ZOOM)

PRESENTER

Jian Zhen Yu, PhD

Dr. Yu is a professor in the Department of Chemistry and the Division of Environment at Hong Kong University of Science and Technology (HKUST) and is director of HKUST's Environmental Central Facility and Atmospheric Research Center. Yu graduated with a doctoral degree from UNC in 1996 and is the recipient of the 2020 Distinguished Alumni Award from the Department of Environmental Sciences and Engineering.

Register: sph.unc.edu/event/unc-smog

Photo courtesy of Pascal Debrunner on Unsplash

... AND SAVE THE DATE: Centennial Celebration! SATURDAY, APRIL 10, 2021

sph.unc.edu/ESE-centennial