Title: Preventing HIV acquisition among adolescent girls: what role do adverse childhood experiences and mental health play?

This study will describe selected adverse childhood experiences, mental health, and named HIV risk behaviors/factors over time among AGYW ages 13-20 years at baseline in the AHDSS, South Africa; determine the associations between selected ACEs and named HIV risk behaviors among AGYW ages 13-20 years at baseline in the AHDSS, South Africa; and assess if mental health mediates the association between ACEs and HIV risk behaviors during later adolescence and young adulthood among AGYW 13-20 years at baseline in AHDSS, South Africa.

Title: Characterizing the longitudinal long COVID experience (physical and mental health symptoms, ability to do work and to perform activities of daily living) over 1 year in adults

In this study, we will describe the prevalence of and predictors of key symptoms (physical and mental health) of long COVID and long COVID's impact on daily activities of life, at baseline, 6 months, and 1 year among individuals diagnosed with long COVID at the UNC COVID Recovery Clinic. We will also identify trajectory groups and related predictors of key symptoms (physical and mental health) of long COVID, as well as long COVID's impact on daily activities of life, among those same individuals living with long COVID.
